Negro Preacher Greets Those Who Came to Receive His Corps.

WOMAN HELPS TO ROB A MAN

Assists a Man in Holding Him While Another Empties His Pockets.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) PETERSBURG, VA., December 21.— Norman Dugger, the Pocahontas colored preacher, supposed to have been drowned in James River several days ago, but very much alive and well, arrived at City Point yesterday evening on the steamer Pocahontas, to be greeted at the pier by his wife and a party of mourning friends, gathered to attend the funeral, which was joyfully and indefinitely postponed.
QUICKLY CAPTURED.

Within an hour's time Chief of Police Ragland and Officers George and Coleman captured Waverly Manson and Albert Hicks, two negro thieves, who, assisted by a negro woman, held up and robbed Robert Rainey on Harrison Street about 1 o'clock lust night. Mr. Rainey's watch and chain and pocket-book were at once recovered. The negroes followed their intended victim for some distance; then Hicks and the woman seized and at once recovered. The negroes followed their intended victim for some distance; then Hicks and the woman selzed and held him, while Manson rifled his pockets. Hainey at once went to Captain Ragiand's home and reported the robbery with the promptest and most successful results. Hicks and Manson were caught in different places down town; the woman has not yet been arrosted. In the Mayor's Court this morning the two negroes were identified by Mr. Rainey, but each avowed his own innocence and accused the other, both, however, denying knowledge of the woman. They were sent on to the Hustings Court.

"I was instructed to give the large one to D. L. Pine, of this city. I called him by telephone, and told him about it and asked him to come for it. He arrived atter Mrs. Chadwick had left for New York and I gave it to him."

The satchel, she said, contained letters and papers. She did not know what had become of the other satchel.

Mr. Pine admitted that he secured the satchel, and kept it until Emil Hoover, Mrs. Chadwick's son, called for it last Sunday night. Emil told him that his mother's atforney, J. P. Dawley, wanted it. He said he was not curious as to what the satchel contained, but thought it. He said he was not currous as to what the satchel contained, but thought there were papers in it. SLUG NO. EIGHT

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
LYNC-HBURG, VA., Dec. 21.—The Southern Railway has just extended the manual block system over the Danville division of the system, which gives the company a telegraph office on the average of every three and a half miles from Washington to Spencer, N. C. It was stated here to-day by an official of the company that the system is to be extended as soon as possible to Atlanta, Ga. This service will cost the company many thousands of dollars annually, and it will give the system more of the manual block system than any other railway in the United States.

The Southern has determined to construct two miles of new track between Hurt's and the bridge over the Staunton River. The idea of this is to, obviate many curves and grades. The improvement will cost about $30,000, and it will greatly reduce the running time between Lynchburg and Danville.
